

GIRL WHO FREED HITCHCOCK GETS OUT OF PRISON

Lawyer and Bondsman Mysteriously Procure Release of Flora Whiston.

PROBE GIRL'S PERJURY.

Mother and Stepfather Before
Grand Jury in Inquiry
Ordered by Court.

Flora Whiston, who went to jail yesterday on the charge of perjury after she had given the testimony which acquitted Raymond Hitchcock, the actor, got out of the Tombs early to-day. The manner of her getting out was invested with a cheap and spectacular mystery which would have made an elegant Chapter III. for a two-penny thriller.

Soon after midnight a lawyer, whose last name is Cohen, but whose first name still comes under the head of Missing Word Contest, appeared at the Tombs. With him was a slender young man who manifested a decided repugnance to publicity. Mr. M. W. C. Cohen had the evening paper. It was signed with the name of Magistrate Peter Barlow, who on yesterday had committed Flora in default of $500 bail for examination to-morrow. The blanks in the document had been filled out with blue black ink such as is used in the police courts, while the signature of Magistrate Barlow was done in purple ink. Written on the margin, in purple ink likewise, was the cabalistic legend, "G. T. Box 21." This proved later to mean Grand Tier Box 21, Metropolitan Opera House, where Magistrate Barlow sat last night. When Magistrate Barlow appeared at the Centra Street Court, where he is sitting this week, the reporters asked him who had gone on the girl's bond. The Magistrate replied:

"I have no idea and, what's more, I don't care." At the request of the reporters District-Attorney Jerome sent Assistant District-Attorney Miner to the Magistrate to find out the name of the girl's surety. Mr. Miner didn't have any better luck than the newspapermen. Eventually, however, Magistrate Barlow raised the veil and said that the bondsman was W. H. Stutchbury, a manufacturer, living at No. 57 East One Hundred and Fifty-third street, the Bronx. Mr. Stutchbury, it developed later, didn't know any of the principals. He signed the bond at the request of one of the lawyers in the case, who is his personal friend.

Yesterday afternoon, when Flora Whiston was awaiting arraignment, she told a reporter for The Evening World that Carl Fischer-Hansen would appear to defend her and that a bondsman had been provided. This information had been brought to her by her mother. But neither Mr. Fischer-Hansen nor the bondsman showed up, and Flora took a walk across the Bridge of Signs. Mr. Fischer-Hansen's failure to appear was regarded as excusable under the circumstances, since he had already filled the role of being attorney for Helen von Hagen, who accused Raymond Hitchcock, and attorney for Raymond Hitchcock, who was accused by Helen von Hagen.

Assistant District-Attorney Garvan will lose no time in beginning his investigation, which Justice Blanchard ordered. Into the conflicting stories told under oath by Flora Whiston, and into her claim that Agent Vincent Pisano, of the Gerry Society, had by threats, forced her to perjure herself. Among the first witnesses whom Mr. Garvan will bring before the Grand Jury are Flora Whiston's stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Graf, and a runner for a law firm. They will testify Thursday.

Although Hitchcock stands acquitted on the first of the half dozen charges made against him, his troubles are by no means over. Assistant District-Attorney Garvan said to-day that within two weeks he would place Hitchcock on trial on the indictment charging him with abducting Helen von Hagen and Elsie Voecks.

Charles S. Whitman, former Judge of General Sessions, has been retained to look after the interests of Flora Whiston by John B. Standfield, chief counsel for Hitchcock. An indictment for perjury against the Whiston girl is expected.

Assistant District-Attorney Garvan said to-day the investigation into the girl's story that Hitchcock had never harmed her, after the one she had previously told and sworn to, would be sweeping and not confined to her charge that she had been threatened by Agent Pisano, of the Gerry Society. If it should develop that the perjury was committed, a series of indictments for subornation of perjury are looked for.

"THE WHISTLING SONG." Such is the song that will be given in next Sunday's World. It is from "Knight for a Day," the successful musical comedy now on at Waldorf's. Every boy will want a copy of this song. You get it, words and music complete, with next Sunday's World.

WOMAN'S BODY IN CELLAR FOR MONTH

Tenant Finds Intruder Who Died While Seeking Humble Shelter.

Amelia Biondi, going into the cellar of the tenement where she lives, at No. 147 East Thirty-second street, to-day, discovered the body of a woman, which is believed to have been there for about a month.

The cellar has not been opened for several weeks and is full of coal bins which have not been used for some time. The janitor learned that tramps were in the habit of sneaking in and spending the night, so he locked the door leading from the ground floor.

While looking into the coal bins, Mrs. Biondi saw the woman's feet and ran screaming into the street, where she found a policeman.

The woman had evidently slipped into the place for shelter, as she had placed her hat on an old iron bed and had removed her shoes. She was poorly dressed.

The police failed to make a complete investigation, but a reporter for The Evening World found a small handbag which must have belonged to the woman. On it were the initials "P. K." and inside was a bill for one dollar's worth of flowers, made out to "Florence Reynolds."

for probate within the next two weeks. Henry T. Keith, special attorney for the Comptroller of Nassau County, announced to-day that he will take steps to have a commission appointed to appraise his property. The estate is supposed to run into the millions and, according to Mr. Keith, the sons of the dead banker are trying to evade the payment of the inheritance tax to the State.

On the day of Mr. Jenkins' death, a deed of trust was filed at Minola by Edward T. Jenkins and Fred Jenkins, the banker's sons, and Fenwick D. Smith, Jenkins' son-in-law. When the attention of Mr. Keith was called to this he was angry.

"This looks as if the state out of the inheritance tax on the Jenkins estate," he said, "and I shall take immediate steps to check such a move. This deed of trust, leaving his property entailed to his sons, appears, on the face of it, to be simply a method of dodging the payment of a large inheritance tax."

Horrors of Fat Girls Coming Out.

Coming out is the first great event of a girl's life. She thinks and dreams about it from the hour she understands what it means. It is to be her first triumphal march. Then how terrible must be the anticipations of the overfat young maiden, who realizes her proportions are far from conforming to the standard of fashion set by the more shapely girls with whom she is about to compete. Hence, ensues desperate efforts, by means of rigid dieting, starvation, or fudge and chocolate delights, strenuous exercising at the risk of developing a square set and angular outline of figure, to take off the excess of maternity fat. Or else the distracted debutante flies for succor to the "patent" and "secret" advertised remedies.

The result only too frequently is that the so-called remedies and starvation diet ruin her stomach, while the exercise makes her more corpulent. Finally, she is forced to resort to a surgical physical danger. A far better plan, one which other fat folks by the way, whether male or female, old or young, may adopt with equal benefit, is to go to the draught, get those three simple remedies, viz., Dr. Cassara's, Dr. Cassara's, Dr. Cassara's, mix them together and take one teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

With the aid of this harmless receipt one can reduce as much of as little as one pleases, quickly and safely. It works naturally, does not cause wrinkles and reduces the body symmetrically. Furthermore, it depends on neither exercising nor diet to help it do the work, and it will not destroy the stomach. On the contrary, it is beneficial to the system, cleansing the blood and clearing the complexion. Finally, it saves a girl's money, for any druggist will fill this receipt for a small sum.

To-Day, Thirty-Six Years Ago,
St. Patrick's Day, 1872,

Macy's China, Glassware and Bric-a-Brac
Departments Were Opened.

TO-DAY our stocks of such wares, on display and accessible for selling, are greater than the combined stocks of ALL the other department stores in New York City.

March sales of the above wares had their origin here—we started them for the purpose of celebrating Anniversaries of the opening of these departments. Now every March finds big and little stores all over the country holding "March Sales of China, Glass and Bric-a-Brac"—helping along the celebration of a Macy Anniversary.

This 50th Anniversary of the store and 36th Anniversary of these departments bring sale values extraordinary. The dozen we tell of to-day are characteristic:

HAVILAND DECORATED DINNER SETS, Chas. Field Haviland ware, 101 pieces, graceful shapes; decorated with a dainty floral design in natural colorings, handles with gold; our regular price $18.97 the set; this sale, $14.95
AUSTRIAN CHINA DECORATED DINNER SETS, 100 pieces, neat floral designs, handles with gold; regularly $9.97; this sale, $8.49

Macy's—as the original department store and now the LARGEST RETAIL STORE UNDER ONE ROOF IN THE WORLD—originated MOST of the ideas that contribute to the success of modern department stores. Like the March Sale of China, Glass and Bric-a-Brac, these ideas have been copied far and wide.

But there is one feature of Macy's that has never yet been copied successfully, and that is MACY'S STRICTLY CASH SYSTEM. To that we owe UNDERSELLING SUPREMACY.

AS LONG AS OTHER STORES CONTINUE TO SEE-SAW BETWEEN CREDIT AND CASH—credit for the favored few and cash for the masses—OUR UNDERSELLING SUPREMACY WILL NOT BE QUESTIONED.
